Media Information

CREDENTIALS: Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be obtained by contacting Rick Brewer in the Sports Information Office. Brewer's mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.

Requests are screened with care to insure a working press-box. Children, spouses and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the U.S. Basketball Writers Association.

FILING COPY: There are no Western Union facilities in the Carmichael Auditorium pressbox. The Athletic Department does furnish a number of telephones for writers to use in moving their copy. The Sports Information Office also has one telecopier which is available on a first-come, first-serve basis after each game. It is strongly suggested, however, that whenever possible writers bring their own telecopiers. This will allow all copy to be moved more quickly and will alleviate any deadline problems.

PRESSBOX SERVICES: Programs and statistics will be provided before each game. A play-by-play will be distributed at the end of each half. Complete halftime and final boxscores will be provided. Coaches' quotes will also be available.

Sandwiches and soft drinks are available in the pressbox.

INTERVIEWS: Player interviews can be arranged by contacting the Sports Information Office. Generally, these interviews will be set up before or after practice in Carmichael Auditorium.

RADIO NETWORK AND TV SHOW: The Tar Heel Sports Network is one of the largest and best basketball radio networks in the nation. The network is operated by Village Companies of Chapel Hill with Jim Heavner as the producer. Woody Durham, sports director at WPTF-TV, will handle the play-by-play with Heavner and Bob Holliday of WCHL Radio adding color commentary.

The Carolina Basketball Show will be televised across the state of North Carolina each Sunday. Durham serves as emcee for this program which features Coach Dean Smith and game highlights.

The Outlook

With Olympian Al Wood heading the cast of returning players, North Carolina could have another outstanding basketball team in 1980-81.

However, the Tar Heels will be hard-pressed to equal the accomplishments of recent Carolina teams.

Gone from last year's 21-8 squad are five men who played key roles in Carolina's great success during the past four years. All five, in fact, were selected in the NBA draft early in the summer.

Those missing players are All-America forward Mike O'Koren, centers Jeff Wolf and Rich Yonakor and guards Dave Colescott and John Virgil. O'Koren, Wolf, Colescott and Virgil were starters the last half of the 1979-80 season, while Yonakor was a two-year starter and the team's top reserve as a senior.

In their four years at Carolina, the Tar Heels won 95 games and lost just 27, a winning percentage of .779. Carolina finished first in the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season race three times in their four years and won two ACC Tournament titles. The Tar Heels appeared in the NCAA Tournament each of their four seasons in Chapel Hill.

O'Koren will be especially difficult to replace. He was a great all-around player who excelled in all phases of the game. Mike was the sixth player and first small forward chosen in the professional draft.

Still, Carolina again has the potential to be a factor in the ACC race this season.

"This will be a talented team if we can avoid key injuries," says Coach Dean Smith, "but it will not have the experienced talent of last year. Inexperience, in fact, will be our biggest problem. Because this will be such a young team, leadership will be very important this season."

Much of that leadership will come from Wood, a top All-America candidate in his senior season. A 6-6 forward from Gray, Ga., Al has been Carolina's top scorer and best shooter for the last two years.

Wood averaged 19.0 points a game last season and shot 57.1 percent from the field. As a sophomore he had a 17.8 average and led the ACC in field goal percentage with a mark of 57.2. Al was the fourth-leading scorer on the 1980 Olympic Team with a 10.0 average and shot a team-high 62.8 percent from the field.

However, shooting is not Wood's entire game. He has continued to improve his overall play in his time at Carolina. He is capable of playing either small forward or big guard and will probably see action at both spots this season.

Another key player for the Tar Heels is forward James Worthy, a 6-9 sophomore from Gastonia, N.C. Worthy started the first 14 games of the season last year before suffering a broken ankle in a game against Maryland. However, he is fully recovered from that injury.

Worthy was Carolina's leading rebounder and shot-blocker at the time of his injury. He was also scoring 12.5 points a game and was shooting 58.7 percent from the floor. He will team with Pete Budko to give Carolina experience at the big forward and center positions.

Budko, a 6-9 senior from Lutherville, Md., split time with Wolf and Yonakor at center during the past two years. He is an excellent defensive player with good speed and quickness. Unfortunately, he suffered a stress fracture in a leg prior to fall practice beginning. That injury could keep him out of action until the season is underway.

The center and big forward positions are almost interchangeable in Carolina's style of play. Other possibilities at these spots are Chris Brust, a 6-8½ junior from Babylon, N.Y.; Timo Makkonen, a 6-11½ freshman from Lahti, Finland and Vance Academy in North Carolina; and Sam Perkins, a 6-9 freshman from Latham, N.Y.

While Wood is set to start at one of the swing positions, there are several candidates for the other spot. The leading contender is Mike Pepper, a 6-3 senior from Vienna, Va. Pepper made tremendous progress during the course of the 1979-80 season. If he continues his improvement he's capable of making an even bigger contribution to this year's team.

Also in the picture at small forward and big guard are Eric Kenny, a 6-6 senior from Asheville, N.C.; Matt Doherty, a 6-7 freshman from East Meadow, N.Y.; and Cecil Exum, a 6-5 freshman from Dudley, N.C.

Carolina could be in good shape at point guard with the return of Jimmy Black and Jim Braddock. Both have excellent potential, but lack Colescott's experience.

A 6-2½ junior from the Bronx, N.Y., Black got playing time as Colescott's backup last season. Braddock, a 6-1½ sophomore from Chattanooga, Tenn., saw most of his action as a member of the Tar Heels' Blue Team. He also could see action at big guard. His ability to play both spots makes him a valuable team member.

While Smith is concerned about his team's lack of experience, the Tar Heels do have a few things going for them—Wood, quickness and tradition.

"I do think we could be a quicker team than we were a year ago," says Smith. "However, we may not be as quick as some of the teams we will play. We will be a good fast-breaking team if we can rebound the way I would like. Still, it's hard to say if we can be as good a team or have as good a record as we did last season."

A great record will be difficult because the schedule, as usual, is tough. The Tar Heels will play in three regular-season tournaments—the Alaskan Shootout (along with four other NCAA Tournament teams from last year, Georgetown, LSU, Missouri and Arkansas), the Winston Tire Holiday Classic at Los Angeles (facing Louisville in the opening round and then either Minnesota or Southern California) and the Big Four Tournament. There are also games against highly-rated teams such as Indiana, Kansas, Rutgers, Furman and St. Joseph's in addition to the 14-game ACC schedule.

Faced with this schedule and the loss of five of the top seven players from last year, Carolina may not have the pressure of being as highly rated as Tar Heel teams of the past. However, considering the school's great basketball tradition, Carolina could surprise and contend for ACC honors again.

The Tar Heels have finished first in the ACC regular-season race nine times in the last 14 years and have been second on the other five occasions. In addition, Smith's teams have appeared in a national post-season tournament each of those 14 years. Only UCLA has been to the NCAA's Final Four more times than Carolina in this period or had more 25-win seasons.

Chancellor Christopher Fordham

The new chancellor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is Dr. Christopher C. Fordham III.

Fordham was appointed to the position last February by the University's Board of Governors on the recommendation of William Friday, president of the consolidated university system.

Fordham had been Vice-Chancellor for Health Affairs since 1977. He served as Dean of the University's School of Medicine from 1971 to 1979 and holds a professorship in the School of Medicine.

Fordham succeeded Ferebee Taylor as Chancellor. Taylor, who became chancellor in 1972, resigned effective January 31 following a heart attack last year.

"I have known Dr. Fordham for many years," said President Friday, in announcing the appointment. "He is a courageous, fair and aggressive leader who has abundantly demonstrated his love for the University. His perception of the nature and purpose of this noble institution is clear, and he will lead it to a greater fulfillment of its mission of good teaching, solid research and public service appropriate to and expected of the University at Chapel Hill."

Prominent nationally as an educator, Fordham in 1977 turned down the top health office in the nation, assistant secretary for health in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to stay in Chapel Hill.

Since he joined the Carolina faculty 22 years ago Fordham has held a wide variety of prestigious positions at the University and on the national level. He is a former member of the executive council of the Association of American Medical Colleges and a past chairman of both the AAMC National Council of Deans and Southern Regional Deans.

A member of the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences, Fordham also is a diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine, a Distinguished Service Member of the AAMC, a fellow of the American College of Physicians and a member of the medical honorary, Alpha Omega Alpha.

In administration for the past 15 years, Fordham has been exposed for the last three years to university-wide issues and problems such as admissions, budget and enrollment projections as a member of the chancellor's administrative council.

A native of Greensboro and a 1951 graduate of the Harvard Medical School, Fordham joined the University's School of Medicine and Faculty in 1958. In 1969 he left Chapel Hill to become Vice-President for Medicine and Dean of the School of Medicine at the Medical School of Georgia.

He returned to Chapel Hill in 1971 as professor of medicine and Dean of the School of Medicine.

The School of Medicine made substantial advances during Fordham's deanship. The school expanded its programs, strengthened its faculty and gained increasing national prominence for its excellence and creativity.

The humanitarian overtones of Fordham's health care and outreach programs in the University are well known to his colleagues. In his time as dean, the School of Medicine initiated a statewide regional education program (the Area Health Education Centers program) which has achieved wide recognition as an educational approach to improving the distribution of physicians and other health professional workers. He also has been associated with the growth and strengthening of many other programs within the health schools.

Fordham has a long background in undergraduate education at Carolina. He, his wife, their three daughters, his father and his uncles all attended the University. He is a member of the Central Selection Committee of the John Motley Morehead Foundation which selects undergraduate Morehead scholars and is a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece.

Fordham has contributed numerous articles to published literature ranging from scientific papers to editorials or papers on health policy. He is the author of one book.

Fordham is married to the former Barbara Byrd of Greensboro. They have three daughters—Pamela Fordham Richey of New Bern, Susan Fordham Crowell of Chapel Hill and Betsy Fordham Templeton of Nashville, Tenn.

Athletic Director John Swofford

John Swofford, a former Tar Heel football player, is the new director of athletics at the University of North Carolina.

Swofford was named to the position last March by Chancellor Christopher Fordham and took over the job May 1. He succeeded Bill Cobey who had resigned to pursue public office.

Swofford has been a member of the Carolina athletic staff since May 1, 1976. He served two-and-a-half years as assistant athletic director and business manager and a year as assistant athletic director and assistant executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation before being named head of the department.

"John Swofford is a bright and energetic young administrator with an abundance of enthusiasm for Carolina athletics," said Chancellor Fordham, in announcing the appointment. "He brings imagination, talent and experience into a position that is very important to the University. I am confident that he will do well in this demanding new role."

Although intercollegiate athletics is faced with many problems, Swofford is looking forward to the challenges.

"I am obviously a very fortunate person and my feelings currently include a double dose of happiness and humbleness," he said after his appointment. "I am grateful for the opportunity to serve the University in this position.

"We have an outstanding coaching, administrative and clerical staff, and with their help, our primary goal will be to continue the tradition of integrity and excellence that has been the trademark of Carolina athletics. Our athletic program is part of a great university. It is a special place and we will strive to reflect her values and character.

"We will continue our commitment to a strong overall program and we will continually strive to operate on the principle that the student-athletes who are participants in our various sports are our greatest assets. We must be committed to their positive development as individuals while they are a part of our athletic program."

A native of North Wilkesboro, N.C., Swofford first came to Carolina as a Morehead Scholar in 1967. He graduated in 1971 with an A.B. in psychology and industrial relations.

He played quarterback and defensive back on Tar Heel football teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. Those last two teams went to the Peach Bowl and the Gator Bowl. He tied a then-school record against Vanderbilt in 1969 by throwing three touchdown passes in one game.

Swofford was named to the Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics. He also served as president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes on campus.

In 1973 he earned a M.Ed in athletic administration at Ohio University. In his time there Swofford served as a graduate assistant to the assistant business manager of athletics.

From 1973 to 1976 he was athletic ticket manager and assistant to the director of athletic facilities and finance at the University of Virginia. His duties in that job included directing all ticket sales, advertising and promotions. He also handled game contract settlements, stadium and coliseum operations and team travel arrangements.

Upon returning to Carolina as assistant athletic director and business manager, he handled all the athletic department's business affairs. Among his many other responsibilities were handling fund-raising affairs, team travel and the athletic dining hall. He also coordinated sports camps.

Although he remained assistant athletic director, Swofford dropped the business manager title and was named assistant executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation in January, 1979. In that job he was in charge of the overall financial structure of the athletic department. He also supervised the business, ticket and game operations departments as well as the scheduling for men's non-revenue sports. His position with the Educational Foundation involved general office procedures, membership services and fund-raising.

Swofford's choice as athletic director was hailed by members of the Carolina athletic staff.

"I'm delighted at the choice," said Football Coach Dick Crum at the time. "I've worked with John for the two years I've been here and I'm looking forward to being associated with him for a long time. He has everything involving athletics at an academically-oriented university in the proper perspective. That's what we need."

"John Swofford will be an excellent athletic director," said Basketball Coach Dean Smith. "I am glad the choice came from within the University as we have had good continuity through the years. John is the type of young man we need in intercollegiate athletics."

Only 31, Swofford is one of the youngest athletic directors in the country. However, his age didn't bother Chancellor Fordham and it doesn't bother Swofford either.

"I look on the positive side of most things," he says. "So I don't consider my age a problem. Now it's less a problem not only in athletics, but also in business. Job maturity is more important."

Swofford is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Athletic Directors and is on the board of directors of the Ohio University Athletic Administration Program. He was a divisional vice-chairman of the Carolina Challenge, a fund-raising effort by former chancellor Ferebee Taylor. He is a member of the East Chapel Hill Rotary Club.

A regular jogger, Swofford also enjoys reading and tennis. He is married to the former Becky Owens of North Wilkesboro. They have two children, Autumn and Chad.

Tar Heel Tradition

Three national championships, four national players-of-the-year, a host of All-Americas and one of the best winning percentages in the history of the game.

Those are just some of the reasons the University of North Carolina has one of the greatest traditions in college basketball. There is little wonder that basketball is a very special sport on the Carolina campus.

Since the sport began here in 1911, Carolina has posted a record of 1,200 wins against only 471 losses. Sixty of the 70 teams have had winning records.

Carolina is one of only a few schools which have won 1,000 games. In fact, Kentucky and Carolina rank one-two in all-time victories. The Tar Heel and the Wildcats also have the best won-loss percentages in history.

Carolina is one of only six schools to capture both a National Collegiate Athletic Association championship and a National Invitation Tournament title. The Tar Heels won the NCAA crown in 1957 with a perfect 32-0 record and then swept the NIT in 1971. Carolina also was voted national champion in 1924 with a 26-0 record.

Since the NCAA Tournament was first played, Carolina has been one of the most dominant teams in the game. In fact, over one-third of all NCAA semi-final appearances have been made by just nine teams—UCLA (13), Ohio State (8), Caroina (7), Kentucky (7), Kansas (6), Cincinnati (5), Indiana (4), Louisville (4) and Oklahoma State (4).

The Tar Heels have won the NCAA's Eastern Regional Tournament six times. No one else has won more than three.

Despite the University's long and storied basketball past, the sport has become even more popular here since Dean Smith became the head coach. During the last 14 years Carolina ranks with UCLA and Marquette as the winningest teams in America.

Carolina has dominated the Atlantic Coast Conference in this period, winning the league's regular-season title nine times and finishing second on the other five occasions. This 14-year stretch of finishing first or second in the league standings has never been equalled by any school in any conference.

The Tar Heels have played in a national post-season Tournament each of the past 14 years. The 1967, 1968, 1969, 1972, 1975, 1977 and 1979 teams won ACC Tournament championships and advanced into NCAA play. The Tar Heels won the Eastern Regionals in 1967, 1968, 1969, 1972 and 1977 and went on to the NCAA's Final Four. The 1970, 1971, 1973 and 1974 teams went to the NIT in New York.

Thus, no freshman class since 1963 has missed a post-season tournament at Carolina.

In the last 14 years Carolina has won 341 games and lost just 88. That's roughly an average of 24-6 a season, one of the most amazing marks in intercollegiate athletics.

The Tar Heels have finished in one of the wire service's top 10 polls ten times in the past 14 years. Six times the Tar Heels have finished the year ranked as one of the top four teams in America. Only UCLA has been there more often in this stretch.

Although the Tar Heels have gained a lot of notoriety for the four-corners offense they use late in games, they actually rank as one of the nation's 10 highest-scoring teams in the last 14 years. Carolina runs one of the best fast breaks in college basketball.

However, the key to Carolina's success may be its tenacious man-to-man defense. In fact, the defense is so effective it actually helps the offense. Steals and easy layups have accounted for many Tar Heel points in recent years. That's one of the reasons Carolina has the best shooting percentage of any team in America in the last 14 seasons. Carolina has hit at least 52 percent of its shots from the floor for an incredible 10 consecutive years.

The Tar Heels have managed these feats against the toughest opposition in the nation. Carolina's schedule is annually ranked as one of the 10 toughest in the country. Making the schedule even more difficult is the fact the Tar Heels play so many games on the road.

Carolina's fame in basketball has even spread abroad. During the last decade Carolina twice played in the International Christmas Tournament in Madrid, Spain and also competed in a tournament in London, England.

Tournament play is nothing new for the Tar Heels, however. Carolina has won 41 tournament championships over the years. The Tar Heels have competed in such tournaments as the Far West Classic in Portland, the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, the Holiday Festival in New York City and the Sugar Bowl Classic in New Orleans.

Carolina has had at least one player on each of the last five U.S. Olympic teams. Larry Brown starred on the 1964 team which won the Gold Medal in Tokyo. Charlie Scott was a member of the 1968 championship team at Mexico City. Then Bobby Jones played on the 1972 team in Munich.

In the 1976 Games at Montreal, Mitch Kupchak, Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Phil Ford all played key roles in the U.S. sweep of the Gold Medal. Al Wood starred on the U.S. team last summer which posted a winning record in a series of games against NBA players.

There have been dozens of All-Americas at Carolina. Twelve of them have played in the Dean Smith Era alone—Billy Cunningham, Bob Lewis, Larry Miller, Charlie Scott, Dennis Wuycik, Bill Chamberlain, Robert McAdoo, Bobby Jones, Mitch Kupchak, Tommy LaGarde, Phil Ford and Mike O'Koren.

During the 1970's UCLA and Carolina had more consensus first and second-team All-Americas than any other schools.

In 1978 Ford became the fourth Tar Heel to be named National Player of the Year. The others were Jack Cobb in 1926, George Glamack in 1941 and Lennie Rosenbluth in 1957.

The crowds which turn out to see the Tar Heels play are proof of the sport's popularity in Chapel Hill. Every game is a sellout in Carmichael Auditorium. Students sleep at the auditorium the night before they are to pick up tickets just to be sure they get into the games. Educational Foundation members who contribute large amounts of money to the athletic program are limited to just two tickets. Faculty members have to go on waiting lists to get into games.

Even the Tar Heel intrasquad games are 10,000 sellouts. Most Carolina games are televised. The Tar Heels are on national television every year and, in addition, many other games are televised across the nation on cable.

Everywhere the Tar Heels play they are a big hit. Just three years ago Carolina drew the largest college basketball crowd in Madison Square Garden history for a game with Rutgers.

It's obvious that nothing could be finer than basketball at Carolina.

Carolina Basketball - International Style

When Al Wood was named to the United States Olympic Basketball Team last summer, it marked the fifth straight time Carolina has been represented on that squad.

That amazing Olympic streak is the highlight of a long line of Tar Heel successes on the international basketball scene. In recent years Carolina players and teams have traveled everywhere from the Great Wall of China to Red Square in Moscow to the beaches of Waikiki.

Still, Carolina's greatest impact on the international game has come in Olympic competition. Wood was one of the stars of the U.S. team last summer which posted a 5-1 record against professional competition. The Americans, of course, did not compete in the Summer Games because of the Olympic boycott.

The first Tar Heel Olympian was Larry Brown, a backcourt star of the early 1960's. Brown played on the winning 1964 U.S. team in Tokyo. Charlie Scott starred on the 1968 squad which swept the Olympic title in Mexico City. Bobby Jones was a member of the 1972 team at Munich.

Four Tar Heel players—Mitch Kupchak, Tommy LaGarde, Walter Davis and Phil Ford—were on the 1976 Olympic Team. All played key roles in the Americans' six-game sweep of the Summer Games.

Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith coached the U.S. team that year and was assisted by Bill Guthridge, his top aide at Carolina.

Playing as a team and stressing defense, the Americans routed Italy in their first game. After edging a fired-up Puerto Rican team on two clutch free throws by Ford, the U.S. then whipped Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Canada in the semi-finals.

After Yugoslavia had beaten the Soviet Union in the other semi-final, the Americans then defeated the Yugoslavs again for the Gold Medal.

While the Olympics rank at the top of Carolina's international and overseas competition, there have been plenty of other star performances.

Carolina players have been prominent in the last three Pan American Games. Mike O'Koren was co-captain of the 1979 U.S. team which won the Gold Medal in Puerto Rico. Tommy LaGarde starred on the 1975 U.S. team and Robert McAdoo played on the winning American team in 1971.

In addition to his Pan American play, O'Koren also was a starting forward on the U.S. team which took part in the Gregarian Cup competition in Moscow in 1978.

LaGarde was a member of the U.S. Continental Cup team which played games in the Soviet Union, Greece, Yugoslavia and other parts of Europe in 1975.

Dennis Wuycik played on the U.S. pre-Olympic team which toured Europe in 1971.

In the spring of 1973, a Russian national team came to America, playing a U.S. all-star team. Two of the biggest stars in that series were George Karl and Bobby Jones.

Later that summer Karl became one of the first Americans ever to go to Mainland China. He was a member of a U.S. basketball team which played there and again was one of the American heroes.

In the fall of 1973 Kupchak played on the U.S. team which won the basketball championship at the World University Games in Moscow.

Carolina took its entire team to Madrid, Spain in 1971 and played in the International Christmas Tournament there. The Tar Heels swept past teams from Brazil and Spain before facing Real Madrid, the European champion, in the finals. In a game televised across Europe, the Tar Heels gave one of their finest performances to win the championship.

Carolina returned to Madrid in 1974, but was edged by the veteran Real Madrid team in the finals. The Tar Heels did pull a stunning upset, however, beating the powerful Cuban National Team on a last-second shot by Davis.

Another of Carolina's greatest efforts came in 1972. Although not actually leaving the country, the Tar Heels did fly from the mainland to win the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu. With Karl, Kupchak and Jones leading the way, Carolina defeated Louisville for the championship there. Ford and O'Koren paced the Tar Heels to another Rainbow triumph in 1977.

In August of 1979 Jimmy Black and James Worthy were chosen to play on the U.S. Junior World Cup Team in Brazil.

Tar Heel players have also made big names for themselves playing professional basketball in Europe. Doug Moe had the most success, three times being selected European Player of the Year. Other Tar Heels who have played in Europe include Dave Chadwick, Kim Huband, Craig Corson, Donn Johnston, John O'Donnell, Donald Washington, Ed Stahl, Bill Chambers, Bruce Buckley, Tom Zaliagiris, Geff Crompton, Randy Wiel, Jeff Wolf and Rich Yonakor.

Suffered a stress fracture in his right leg prior to fall practice beginning... That injury sidelined him indefinitely... Was the leading candidate for the starting center spot... Had split time there the last two years with the graduated Jeff Wolf and Rich Yonakor... When he comes back from his injury, he should be one of the team's top players... Has shown steady improvement in his time at Carolina... Has excellent speed and quickness for a big man... A quick jumper... Because of his quickness and jumping ability, he's being counted on heavily as a rebounder this season... His rebounding, in fact, could be a major factor in Carolina's success... Has shown stretches of excellent defensive play during his career... Could even play forward on defense... One of the team's top shot-blockers for the past two seasons... Has not been a big scorer in the past, but has shot over 50 percent from the field for the last two years... Hit 55.1 percent of his shots last season... Averaged 2.0 points and 2.2 rebounds... Carolina's defensive player of the game twice last year and led team in blocked shots and drawing charges seven times... Top scoring game was six on three different occasions—Duke in the Big Four Tournament, at Virginia and in a home-court win over N.C. State... Has appeared in all 56 games over the past two seasons... Scored a career-high 11 points against Maryland in the 1979 ACC Tournament semi-finals... Also blocked six shots and had five rebounds in that game... Played one of his best all-around games as a sophomore against N.C. State... Had eight points, six rebounds and three assists in that home-court victory... Played in 24 games as a freshman... Had a career-high nine rebounds that season against Kent State... Enjoys scuba diving... One of his summer jobs was retrieving golf balls from water hazards by using his scuba equipment... Younger than most college seniors because he skipped his first year of grade school... His father was a star player at Columbia and then in the NBA... Played at Loyola High... Coached there by Jerry Savage.

A walk-on who earned a scholarship with hustle and hard work... Played on the junior varsity as a freshman... Got a scholarship as a sophomore by making the varsity... Played in 11 games that season... Appeared in 26 of Carolina's 29 games last winter... Most of his action came as a member of the "Blue Team"... Has contributed to the Tar Heels' success the last two years in many ways... A hard worker in practice... Has a lot of savvy... Left-handed... Being counted on to contribute more this season than in the past... His career scoring high is four points... Has hit that total four times... Last occasion was against N.C. State last season in the Big Four Tournament... A Dean's List student in chemistry... Plans to attend medical school next year... Morehead Scholar finalist... Played at T.C. Roberson High in Asheville... Coached there by Buddy Baldwin.

One of the biggest surprises of the Tar Heel season last year... Made a major contribution to Carolina's success... Played in only 11 games as a freshman and just 10 as a sophomore... However, played in every game last year and turned in some outstanding performances... Really began to come on strong after James Worthy was sidelined with a broken ankle... Scored a career-high 12 points against Yale... Defensive player of the game against Furman... Had three key baskets in an overtime win over Rutgers... Helped break open a game at Wake Forest with two key assists... Had been voted by the coaches as Carolina's most improved player in pre-season practice last year... Although he didn't play much in his first two seasons, he was continuing to improve... Had always worked hard during the season and off-season on his basketball skills and weight-training... That hard work has pushed him into a prominent role on this year's team... A leading candidate for the starting position at the number two guard... Excellent all-around athlete... A fine shooter... Has hit 49 of 95 field goal attempts in his career for a shooting percentage of 51.6... Has always been a very popular player with Tar Heel fans... Wasn't highly recruited, but had expressed an interest in Carolina... Carolina coaches saw him play in a McDonald's Classic preliminary and felt he could make a contribution to the Tar Heel program... Coached by Stewart Vetter at Flint Hill Prep.

One of the great players in college basketball... A top All-America candidate in his senior season... Member of the U.S. Olympic Team last summer... Fourth-leading scorer on that team with a 10.0 average... Shot 62.8 percent from the floor for the Olympians in their games against NBA stars... Won one game, 77-75, with a 20-foot shot at the buzzer at Madison Square Garden... Has one of the best shooting touches in the game... Excellent shooter under pressure... Has made many key baskets in his Tar Heel career... His shooting skills often seem to overshadow the rest of his outstanding talents... A hard worker who has made great improvement defensively... Also has developed into a good rebounder and ballhandler... Good hustler... Gives a great effort all the time... Should be a superb senior leader... Capable of playing either guard or forward... Carolina's leading scorer for the last two years... Was third in the ACC last year in scoring with a 19.0 average... Averaged 17.8 points per game as a sophomore... Shot 57.1 percent from the field last year after leading the ACC in field goal percentage at 57.2 as a sophomore... Played in all 29 games last year and scored in double figures each game... Scored a career-high 34 points at South Florida, hitting 16 of 21 shots from the field... Had 32 points against Duke in the ACC Tournament semi-finals... Matched his career-high in rebounds with nine at Wake Forest... Also scored 26 points in that game, hitting 11 of 14 shots from the floor... Had a career-high five assists in a victory over Yale... Five times was named Carolina's defensive player of the game... Opened last season at guard, but was shifted to forward after James Worthy suffered a broken ankle... Did an excellent job at both spots... Led the team in blocked shots and drawing charges on six occasions... Top scoring game as a sophomore was 33 against Virginia Tech... Made 12 of 18 field goal attempts in that game... Hit 14 of 21 field goal attempts and scored 32 points against Niagara in the finals of the Rochester Classic that year... Named that tournament's MVP... It was Al's long jumper with three seconds to play that season which gave Carolina a 54-53 victory at Maryland... Scored 19 points against the same Terps in the ACC Tournament semi-finals that year, making eight of 10 field goal efforts... Also held Albert King to eight points that evening... Started on occasion as a freshman, averaging 9.1 points per game and shooting 60.4 percent from the field... Was sensational that year in the season finale against NCAA finalist Duke... Had 19 points, six rebounds and two steals against the Blue Devils in a game that clinched the ACC regular-season title for the Tar Heels... Has never missed a game in his three years at Carolina, playing in 89 straight... Enters his final season with 1,346 points, 11th highest total in school history... Has made 57.9 percent of his career field goal attempts and 75.8 percent of his free throws... One of the team's most popular players... An enthusiastic young man who loves the game... Played at Jones County High in Gray, Ga... Coached there by Robert Curtis, who is now the school's principal.

Will contend for the starting point guard spot... Suffered a broken vertebra in his neck in a June automobile accident... Made a rapid recovery, however, and will be ready to open the season... His off-season training was hampered by the injury in that he could not play... Saw a great deal of action as Dave Colescott's backup last season... Played in 27 of 29 games after playing in all 29 as a freshman... Has great court awareness and savvy... An excellent playmaker... Possesses fine quickness and speed... Has very quick hands which give him a chance to be another in a long line of great Tar Heel defenders... Has improved as a shooter in his time here... Averaged 5.0 points per game last year after scoring at a 2.2 clip as a freshman... Top scoring games last year were 11 at Georgia Tech and 10 against Duke in both Durham and Chapel Hill... Hit eight of nine clutch free throws in Carolina's win at Duke... Had six assists on four different occasions last season... Had a team-high six steals in an overtime victory over Rutgers at Madison Square Garden... Led the team in drawing charges four times and was twice picked defensive player of the game... Scored a career-high 12 points in the finals of the Rochester Classic as a freshman... Also had a career-high eight assists in that game against Niagara... Made three free throws in the last 38 seconds to clinch a 74-68 win over Duke as a freshman... Hit two foul shots with 18 seconds to play the following day to seal a victory over Arkansas... Was second on the team to Mike O'Koren last year in both steals (42) and assists (85)... Was not well-known nationally in high school, but is considered an excellent prospect by Tar Heel coaches... Named to the U.S. Junior World Cup Team in the summer of 1979... Coached by Tom Murray at Cardinal Hayes High.

Has seen limited action in his first two years at Carolina... Suffered a broken foot during his senior year of high school and had a very slow recovery... Eventually had to have corrective surgery upon his arrival at Carolina... That injury slowed his progress as he missed all of pre-season practice... Played in only four games as a freshman... Appeared in 17 of 29 games last season... Most of that action came as a member of the "Blue Team"... Has had a difficult time getting into shape during his career because of his proneness to injury... Now is in his best physical condition of several years... Will compete for playing time at big forward and center... Played for Roy Koebel and Greg Walsh at Babylon High.

Potentially, one of the top players in the Atlantic Coast Conference and the nation... Started the first 14 games last season as a freshman... Suffered a broken ankle in the second half of a home-court game with Maryland... Missed the rest of the season... Worked hard to rehabilitate himself and is now fully recovered... That injury ended an outstanding freshman season... Worthy had gotten off to a great start... Scored 12.5 points per game, shooting 58.7 percent from the field... Averaged 7.4 rebounds per game... Led the team in blocked shots or drawing charges in seven games... Was Carolina's leading shot-blocker at the time of his injury with 22... Excellent rebounder... Explosive around the basket... Still improving as a defensive player... With his physical skills, he could become one of Carolina's best defenders... Tremendous passer for a big man... Capable of playing any frontcourt position... Could even play big guard if necessary... Scored a season-high 24 points in victory over Detroit, making nine of 13 shots from the floor... Also had season-highs for rebounds (16) and assists (six) in that game... Was brilliant in road victory at Indiana with 18 points and nine rebounds... Was in double figures in scoring 11 times last year and in rebounding five times... Hit four of five shots, scored 12 points and grabbed 10 rebounds in his first game—the Big Four Tournament opener against N.C. State... Played on the Junior World Cup Team in Brazil the summer of 1979... Would have been a candidate for the Olympic Team last summer had he not been injured... Played for Larry Rhodes at Ashbrook High in Gastonia.

Dean Smith
Head Basketball Coach

The head basketball coach at the University of North Carolina is Dean Smith, national coach of the year in two of the past four seasons and a man with one of the greatest reputations in the history of the college game.

In 19 seasons at Carolina Smith has an amazing record of 407 victories against only 135 losses. That's a percentage of .751, the seventh best mark in history of anyone who has coached at least 15 years on the Division I level.

The only men ahead of him are simply Clair Bee, Adolph Rupp, John Wooden, Phog Allen, George Keogan and Frank Keaney. Of that group, only Rupp and Wooden have coached since 1960.

Under Smith, Carolina has reached the NCAA semi-finals five times in the last 14 years. Only UCLA has been to the Final Four more times in that period. In fact, the only coach in history who has made more Final Four appearances than Smith is Wooden. Rupp, like Smith, got there five times after the NCAA set up regional qualifying tournaments in 1946.

In the last 14 years Carolina has won the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season championship nine times and finished second the other five years. No other school in any conference has ever finished first or second in its league standings for such a long period.

The Tar Heels have won seven ACC Tournament titles in this same stretch and have also captured five Eastern Regional crowns. In fact, Carolina has won either the ACC regular-season or tournament championship 10 times in the past 14 seasons.

After Smith took Carolina to the NCAA championship game in 1977, he was named National Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches. In 1979 he was selected as the country's top coach by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and Basketball Weekly.

Perhaps Smith's most famous accomplishment came in 1976 when he guided the United States Basketball Team to a sweep of the Summer Olympic Games in Montreal. In only a few weeks he molded a college all-star team into a close-knit unit. Still the Americans faced the tremendous challenge of competing against international teams which had been playing together for years.

But, with Smith emphasizing a tough pressure defense and fast-breaking team play on offense, the United States regained the Gold Medal it had lost in the controversial 1972 Games.

Four of Smith's Tar Heels played key roles in the Olympic triumph—Mitch Kupchak, Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Phil Ford. In fact, Smith has had players on each of the past five Olympic teams. Larry Brown starred in the 1964 Games at Tokyo; Charlie Scott helped win the championship in Mexico City in 1968; Bobby Jones played on the 1972 team at Munich; and Al Wood was a member of the U.S. squad last summer.

Smith's Olympic victory was just another in a long line of his remarkable successes. His record in the last 14 years is 341-88, a percentage of .795. That gives his teams an average record of 24-6 in that period. Carolina has won at least 25 games eight times in the past 14 years. The Tar Heels won over 20 in five of the other six seasons.

Carolina has been to a national post-season tournament for 14 consecutive years. The Tar Heels won the National Invitation Tournament in 1971.

How does Smith work all this magic?

It's a combination of things. He has tremendous rapport with his players, he is a master teacher and his style of play gets amazing results.

Former Marquette Coach Al McGuire may have put it best when he said, "If anyone was ever born to be a college coach, it's Dean Smith. He's the Jack Armstrong type person.

"Besides myself, I'd pick Dean, John Wooden and Bobby Knight as the nation's top collegiate coaches."

Carolina's teams under Smith are known for unselfish play, great teamwork and a tenacious man-to-man defense. Although the Tar Heels specialize in a whirlwind, fast-breaking offense, they also have a disciplined attack and always rank among the national leaders in field goal percentage.

In a 10-year study released last season by the NCAA, Carolina ranked first in the nation in field goal accuracy and offensive efficiency, fifth in scoring and third in scoring margin.

That ranking of fifth in scoring is really no surprise. Although Smith is sometimes kidded about coaching "slowdowns" because of the four corners offense he uses late in some games, his teams usually rank among the scoring leaders.

Among Smith's many innovations are his run-and-jump defense, the mixing of pressure defenses, the point zone, team huddles at the foul line, the free lance passing game, the four corners offense and the scramble defense which was so effective with the Dudley Bradley-led-defenses of the late Seventies.

His offensive and defensive schemes are constantly studied by other coaches across the country and around the world. Many college, professional and foreign coaches visit the Tar Heel campus during the off-season to get advice from Smith. His high school coaching clinic is one of the most popular in the nation.

Smith's success at Carolina has been shared by those around him. Two of his assistants, Kenny Rosemond and John Lotz, left Carolina to take head coaching jobs in the Southeastern Conference. Another former aide, Larry Brown, is the head coach at UCLA. Smith's current assistants, Bill Guthridge and Eddie Fogler, have turned down head coaching jobs at major universities to remain in Chapel Hill. Smith, himself, has been offered numerous other coaching jobs, both on the college and professional level.

That certainly should be no surprise. In the last 14 years alone, 23 of Smith's players have gone on to play professional basketball in this country and many others have played professionally in Europe, including Jeff Wolf, Rich Yonakor and John Virgil from last year's team. Two of the last three rookies-of-the-year in the National Basketball Association have been Carolina graduates—Walter Davis and Phil Ford.

Billy Cunningham, Charlie Scott, Robert McAdoo and Bobby Jones have won that same honor in the past. It is no coincidence that so many Tar Heel players have been successful in the NBA. Carolina players seem to make the adjustment from college to the pros quite easily. Cotton Fitzsimmons, coach of the Kansas City Kings, pointed that out after working with Ford for just a few months.

"Give me someone who has played for Dean Smith and I know they'll play hard every night," he said. "These North Carolina kids take losses seriously. They have a lot of pride and that's a good trait."

Of course, Smith's players have performed pretty well in college as well as in the pros. He has had more All-Americas than any other active coach. Ford was National Player of the Year three seasons ago.

A native of Emporia, Kansas, Smith attended the University of Kansas on an academic scholarship. He played freshman football and varsity basketball and baseball there. He was a member of the Jayhawk basketball teams which won the national championship in 1952 and finished second in 1953.

Smith was assistant basketball coach and baseball coach at the Air Force Academy in 1958 when he was brought to Carolina by Frank McGuire, then the Tar Heel coach. When McGuire left to join the professional ranks in 1961, Smith was named the head coach.

Carolina has swept the unbelievable total of 25 tournament championships since Smith took the head coaching job. The Tar Heels captured five tournament titles during the 1971-72 season alone.

Smith is a great good-will ambassador for the University. He is called upon to lecture at basketball clinics all over the world. He has been a member of the national rules committee and is currently first vice-president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches. He makes numerous speeches each year. His basketball camp for youngsters is so popular that he never advertises it. In fact, it is always filled by early March.

In his spare time Smith enjoys golf, tennis, music and reading books on a variety of subjects. He has a special interest in theology.

Smith has four children. Daughters Sandy and Mrs. Sharon Kepley are Carolina graduates, as is son Scott. His youngest daughter is Kristen Caroline, who is approaching two years of age. Smith's wife, Linnea, is a physician at North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

Bill Guthridge

Dean Smith's chief assistant at the University of North Carolina is Bill Guthridge, one of the best coaches in college basketball.

Guthridge is beginning his 14th year on the Tar Heel staff. He has helped guide Carolina to a post-season tournament in each of his previous 13 seasons here. In that 13-year period, Carolina has been first or second in the Atlantic Coast Conference race each season, has won either the ACC regular-season or tournament title nine times and won the 1971 National Invitation Tournament.

Bill has a thorough knowledge of all aspects of his profession—teaching, organizing, motivating and recruiting. He works closely with Smith in all phases of the Tar Heel program.

Guthridge's reputation is so outstanding that his name is usually mentioned every time there is a major college coaching vacancy. He has turned down several head coaching jobs and has had his name withdrawn from consideration for others.

"Bill is one of the top coaches in America, and that includes head coaches as well as assistants," says Smith. "His record as an assistant here and at Kansas State has been tremendous. He has made great contributions to both programs."

Guthridge was also a key factor in the United States' 1976 basketball triumph in the Summer Olympic Games. He served as Smith's assistant on that coaching staff and also scouted the Americans' opponents.

In addition to this work with the varsity, Guthridge also coached the Tar Heel freshman and junior varsity teams in his first six years here. He had a 72-25 record and won the Big Four championship four times, an outstanding feat in those days.

Smith gives him much of the credit for developing the players who have kept Carolina among the top basketball powers in the nation.

Guthridge has worked a great deal with both Carolina's offensive and defensive schemes. He is currently the Tar Heel shooting instructor. It is no coincidence that Carolina annually shoots better than 50 percent from the field. In fact, the Tar Heels have the best shooting percentage of any team in America over the last dozen years.

A native of Parsons, Kan., Guthridge played his high school basketball for Harold Johnson, one of two brothers who were innovators of the zone press in the 1930's.

Bill went on to play collegiately at Kansas State in the years the Wildcats reigned as Big Eight champions—1958, 1959 and 1960. Based on his leadership, academic record and athletic accomplishments, he was chosen as one of the University's 13 most outstanding all-around seniors.

Following graduation, Guthridge coached for two years at Scott City (Kan.) High before returning to his alma mater as an assistant to the famed Tex Winter. During his time on the KSU staff, the Wildcats posted a 93-43 record, swept two Big Eight titles and advanced to the NCAA final four twice. Bill's first season in Chapel Hill was 1967-68.

Guthridge has thus been to the NCAA Final Four a total of seven times—six as a coach and once as a player.

Besides working with Smith and Winter, two of the great names in coaching, Guthridge has also coached in Puerto Rico summer leagues for two years. He was once named coach-of-the-year and was invited to coach the Puerto Rican team in the 1968 Olympics. However, he had to turn that offer down because of his work at Carolina. He was contacted about coaching the Puerto Rican Olympic team last summer, as well.

"Not only is Bill an astute basketball technician," says Smith, "but he is also an excellent teacher. He is highly respected by the players who have been through our program. He is sincere in his recruiting and I think this has made him a favorite of prospective student-athletes and their families. He is a man of great integrity."

Unlike many coaches, Guthridge says he actually enjoys recruiting.

"Some people say recruiting is undesirable," says Guthridge. "But my experiences have been very enjoyable. I think that has a lot to do with the type of young man which our university attracts."

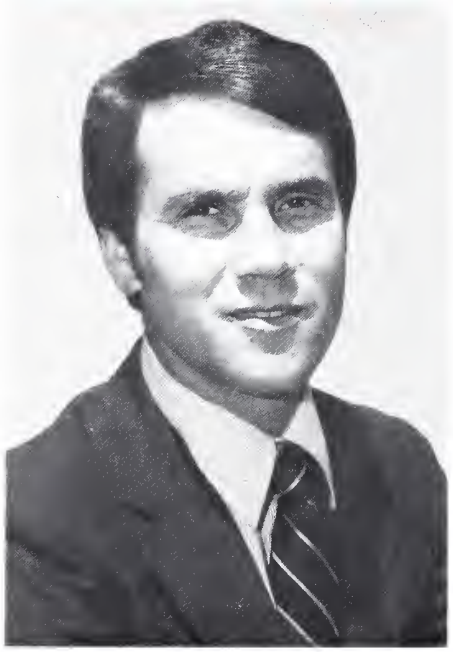
Guthridge, who got his B.S. in mathematics, has a master's degree in education and has taken courses at Carolina toward his PH.D.

While basketball is his game, Bill is also a close follower of other sports. When he can find some spare time, he likes to play golf.

Guthridge has an excellent sense of humor and is one of the most popular after-dinner speakers in the Carolina athletic department.

Bill and his wife, Leesie, have two sons, Jamie and Stuart, and a daughter, Megan.

Eddie Fogler



Eddie Fogler, who has been involved in some of Carolina's greatest basketball seasons, is beginning his eighth year as a Tar Heel assistant.

As a player, Fogler helped guide Carolina to two Atlantic Coast Conference championships. In his seven years as a coach here, the Tar Heels have won three more ACC Tournament titles and have finished first in the regular-season race four times.

Fogler knows the game very well and is considered an excellent teacher. He is also a top-flight recruiter and travels extensively for Coach Dean Smith.

"Eddie has unusual sincerity in recruiting and he is an excellent recruiter because of that," says Smith. "He has a genuine love for the University and, as a result, he can present it well."

Fogler has a solid background in fundamental basketball. He learned the game as a youngster in New York City against excellent competition. In fact, he is one of the few players ever to make the all-city team twice.

Eddie then played guard on Tar Heel teams from 1967 to 1970. The 1968 and 1969 teams won ACC championships and advanced to the NCAA Final Four. In his senior season the Tar Heels played in the National Invitation Tournament.

A playmaking guard, Fogler is considered one of the best ballhandlers and finest passers in Carolina history. He still ranks as one of the Tar Heels' all-time leaders in assists.

After receiving a bachelor's degree in mathematics in 1970, Fogler spent a year teaching and coaching at DeMatha High School in Washington, D.C. He was in charge of the DeMatha junior varsity.

He returned to Chapel Hill in the fall of 1971 as a graduate assistant. Fogler worked that season with the Carolina freshmen and also helped with scouting and recruiting. He earned his master's degree in 1972.

Fogler became a full-time staff member in 1973 and has made valuable contributions to the Tar Heel program.

"Eddie brings a bright mind to the coaching profession," says Smith. "He really was like an assistant coach on the floor in his playing days here when he quarterbacked some of our championship teams. He's a hard worker and has enthusiasm for the sport.

"If Bill Guthridge had taken one of the many head coaching jobs he's been offered, Eddie would be more recognized in the college basketball world. He will be a great college head coach."

Actually, Fogler's reputation has grown anyway. He has already received two head coaching offers from major universities. However, he says he's perfectly happy in Chapel Hill.

"Of course, I think about being a head coach," he says, "but that is in the future. Right now, I couldn't find a better place to work than here."

Fogler is one of the most popular members of the Carolina athletic staff. He enjoys all sports. Eddie is a bachelor.

Roy Williams

Roy Williams is beginning his third year as a part-time assistant on the North Carolina coaching staff.

In the past Williams has coached the junior varsity, worked with the varsity and assited in recruiting. He has done an excellent job in all of those areas. In fact, he has had opportunities to take a top assistant's job at two major colleges, but turned them down to remain at Carolina.

A native of Asheville, N.C., Williams played basketball and baseball at T.C. Roberson High. He then played freshman basetball at Carolina in 1968-69. He is a 1972 Tar Heel graduate and also got his master's degree here.

Prior to returning to Chapel Hill two years ago, Williams had spent five seasons as athletic director and head basketball coach at Owen High School in Asheville.

"Roy is a highly organized person who has all the characteristics of a great coach," says Dean Smith. "He genuinely cares a great deal for his players."

Williams is an avid golfer and shoots in the low 70's. Roy and his wife, Wanda, have a son, Scott, and a daughter, Kimberly.

The University

Nestled in the rolling foothills of piedmont North Carolina is Chapel Hill, home of the University of North Carolina.

The late artist William Meade Prince once described the town and University as "The Southern Part of Heaven." It is a tag richly deserved.

Like many things in this small, yet cosmopolitan village of 35,000 people, the magic, romance and beauty that fascinated Prince remain unchanged today.

In fact, Time Magazine has called Chapel Hill, "One of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States." It is a town without pretense, one in which the fellow wearing the $150 suit may run a small cafe, while his conversational partner looking worn and tattered, may well be a successful novelist.

The school itself is the oldest state university in the nation having been provided for in the Constitution of 1776, chartered in 1789, the site selected in 1793 and opening its doors to students in 1795 while George Washington was president. The University enjoyed a glorious early history and by the start of the War Between the States ranked only behind Yale in enrollment among American colleges.

The University was one of the few southern colleges to stay open during the War but Reconstruction took its toll and the University was forced to shut down for the only time in its history. In the last decades of the 19th century and in the 20th century, however, Carolina has recovered from its adversity and made the progress that has lfited it to the top of American education.

Currently, there are 14 colleges and schools and more than 70 departments and other academically-affiliated divisions, institutes and centers at the University.

Strong in the humanities as well as the social and natural sciences, the University has one of the nation's leading journalism schools and a business administration school of special potency, commensurate with the growing industrial might of the South.

Carolina is also one of only six universities in the country with a full range of health professional schools on the same campus. UNC's School of Dentistry is one of the nation's best and the Schools of Medicine, Pharmacy, Nursing and Public Health are also well-regarded.

North Carolina Memorial Hospital on campus is the University's teaching and research hospital and is a teaching center for hundreds of clinics in North Carolina's 100 counties.

Among the dozens of institutes and specialized programs affiliated with that division are the Health Services Research Center, the Hand Rehabilitation Center, the Child Development and Mental Retardation Research Institute and the Dental Research Center, each of which is one of only a few centers of its kind in the country.

In addition, the University boasts a law school with a national reputation and strong schools in education, library science and social work, as well as the outstanding undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences.

The key to Carolina's national prestige, however, is probably its excellent graduate school. A recent rating of graduate schools by the American Council on Education put 12 UNC graduate departments in the highest category and 12 in the second highest. That made Carolina the leader of all universities in the Southeast.

Alan Carter of the ACE described the University as "the leading Southern university."

In annual choices made by southern graduate scholars in the Rockefeller grants, more select graduate study in Chapel Hill than any other place.

The University is continuing to grow as it strives to keep pace with today's changing world. Growth has been especially tremendous in the last 25 years. That era has seen the founding of the School of Journalism, the School of Business Administration, the Carolina Population Center, the WUNC-TV public television station, the Ackland Memorial Art Center and a new computer system.

In the same time, building has increased as there are now close to 300 major structures on the Carolina campus. Student enrollment has mushroomed to 20,400. The faculty has grown to nearly 1,800 members. New courses have been added to the curriculum and old ones revised. Adult education courses have been expanded. Scholarship and development programs have grown. And, Carolina now offers academic majors in some 200 different areas.

Here are some other facts of interest about one of America's great academic institutions:

- Carolina's Morehead Planetarium, the first ever built on a college campus, is one of the most sophisticated in the world. Since Since 1960, American astronauts in the Mercury, Gemini, Apollo-Skylab and Apollo-Soyuz programs have been trained in celestial navigation at the Planetarium. It is equipped with the world's most advanced planetarium instrument, the Zeiss Model VI projector—one of five in existence in the world. The Morehead Building also includes a 35-foot walk-in model Copernican Orrey, one of two in the world. It demonstrates how planets revolve around the sun while rotating on their axes and the moons revolve around the planets.
- The Walnut Rotunda of the Planetarium contains a distinguished collection of 17th and 18th century paintings, including works by Rembrandt, Anthony Van Dyck, Thomas Gainsborough, Henry Raeburn, Rembrandt Peale and others.
- Thirty-one of North Carolina's 64 governors have been graduates of UNC, including current governor Jim Hunt who earned a degree from Carolina's law school.
- One of the best-known organizations on campus is the Carolina Playmakers. Former members include Thomas Wolfe, Paul Green, Betty Smith and Andy Griffith.
- James Knox Polk, the only American president to graduate first in his college class, was an 1818 alumnus of UNC and the 11th president of the United States.
- The William Hayes Ackland Memorial Art Center contains European and American art objects dating from 3,000 B.C. through the major periods of Western art, and is especially rich in French 19th Century paintings.
- The Institute of Government on campus is a training center for city, county and state officials and employees. It is also involved in research and consultations for state and local governments.
- The University's television network feeds programs into North Carolina's public schools.
- The W. C. Coker Arboretum is a five-acre naturalistic garden on the east edge of the historic campus, containing 400 varieties of ornamental plants and shrubs.
- The libraries consist of the Louis Round Wilson Library, a research library in the humanities and social sciences; the Robert B. House Undergraduate Library; and more than a dozen school and departmental collections which total nearly three million volumes.
- The Music Library in Hill Hall is the largest of its kind in the South with over 60,000 volumes of books and scores and more than 10,000 recordings.
- The North Carolina Research Laboratories of Anthropology are a repository for more than two million artifacts, most of them uncovered by the museum's own excavations, and are considered to be one of the primary sources for archaeological research in the South.
- Another feature is the Institute for Research in Social Science, an organization performing fact-finding duties in sociology, economics, political science, psychology, humanities, statistics, journalism and other fields including race relations, urban studies and regional development.

But perhaps the most outstanding feature of the University is the gentle way the new has been blended with the old to form one of the most beautiful campuses in the world.

Ivy-covered buildings and tree-lined walkways surround spacious, grassy greens where students lounge between classes. Tall pines cover south campus where modern buildings have been constructed.

In direct contrast on north campus are Gerard Hall, built in 1837; the South Building, built in the period from 1798 to 1814; and Old East, the oldest building on a state university campus in America. The cornerstone to Old East was laid in 1793 and the dormitory was officially recognized as a national historical landmark in 1966. The 1793 date is considered by University founders to be the official birthdate of the University.

Other famous and beautiful spots around campus include the Old Well, the Carolina Inn, the Davie Poplar, the botanical gardens and Gimghoul Castle.

Despite the changes and growth, the basic beauty of this area remains the same.

A visitor to Chapel Hill can't help but notice thousands of cars plastered with bumper stickers praising Carolina and this beautiful village. The prestige of the University and the natural beauty and pleasant environment of the community lend credence to those stickers' message, "I'd Rather Be in Chapel Hill."

Carmichael Auditorium

The home of the North Carolina Tar Heels is beautiful Carmichael Auditorium, or "Blue Heaven" as it is known by Carolina fans.

It is not exactly a heaven for visiting teams, however, as few of them win in Chapel Hill. In fact, the Tar Heel record at home stands at 124-14 since the arena opened in 1965.

Carmichael is always packed with overflow crowds of partisan, enthusiastic Tar Heel fans. Every home game is sold out before the season begins. The only way a non-student can get a ticket to Carmichael is to be a large contributor to the Educational Foundation. Even preseason scrimmages and exhibition games are sellouts.

Carmichael is located in the tall pine trees at the heart of the Carolina campus. It is considered one of the most beautiful basketball arenas in the country.

The auditorium has been the home of nine Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season championship teams, seven ACC Tournament winners, five Eastern Regional champions and one National Invitation Tournament champion.

Students wait in long lines for a chance to see a game in Carmichael. In fact, they often sleep outside the auditorium the night before tickets are distributed for games.

Several hundred seats were added to Carmichael after the 1975-76 season, pushing capacity to 10,000.

Most of the Carolina athletic offices are located in Carmichael. Athletic Director John Swofford and Basketball Coach Dean Smith have their offices there. The halls are lined with sketches of Carolina's most outstanding athletes and there are five trophy cases containing awards and pictures from all sports.

The auditorium is named for the late William D. Carmichael, Jr., one of the most popular gentlemen ever to serve on the University campus. He left a lucrative Wall Street business to become associated with Carolina.

In Chapel Hill, Carmichael was comptroller and later vice-president of the Consolidated University. He also served for a long time as the Consolidated University's acting president. He died in 1961.

The auditorium adjoins Woollen Gymnasium, long-time site of varsity competition and now the center of Carolina's physical education and intramural activities.

Carolina's Greatest Players

From Cobb to Rosenbluth, from the "Blind Bomber" to the "Kangaroo Kid," from Dillon to Ford. The list of basketball greats at the University of North Carolina is an all but endless one.

There have been scores of all-conference players, numerous All-Americas and four National Players of the Year. Many Tar Heel players have gone on to become superstars in professional basketball, as well.

All of this started back in 1911 when Carolina fielded its first team. Marvin Ritch captained that squad, but history does not tell us how great a player he was.

However, history does tell us a lot about some members of Carolina's first great team—the 1924 national champions. The Tar Heels were 26-0 that year and were led by Cartwright Carmichael, Jack Cobb and Monk McDonald.

While the style of play has changed drastically since then, these men are still recognized as three of Carolina's greatest stars. Cobb, in fact, is a member of the Helms Basketball Hall of Fame. He was a three-time All-America and the Helms National Player of the Year in 1926. Carmichael was twice named All-America and McDonald was an all-conference performer.

Although the Tar Heels did not have an All-America like Cobb or Carmichael in the 1930's, there were many outstanding players. Ivan (Jack) Glace, Earl Ruth, Virgil Weathers, Tom Alexander, Jim McCachren and Stewart (Snooks) Aitken made the All-Southern Conference team that decade.

The big star of the early 1940's was George Glamack—"the Blind Bomber." Glamack had terrible eyesight and could barely see the basket while standing right under it. However, he developed the uncanny sense of knowing where the hoop was in relation to his position on the court. He perfected a hook shot which he used with either hand and with great accuracy. He was a two-time All-

America and Helms Player of the Year in 1941. He's now in the Hall of Fame.

All-America John (Hook) Dillon was the star of the 1946 team which lost to Oklahoma A&M and big Bob Kurland in the national finals. Dillon, however, had an excellent supporting cast in Jim Jordan, Bones McKinney, Jim White and Bob Paxton. Jordan, in fact, had been an All-America in 1945 and the Most Valuable Player in the Southern Conference.

Eleven years later the Tar Heels again reached the national finals. This time they won the NCAA title, defeating Wilt Chamberlain and Kansas in a triple-overtime thriller that rates among the greatest college games ever.

Lennie Rosenbluth was the star of that team. He was named National Player of the Year as Carolina went 32-0. Other starters on that unforgettable team were Pete Brennan (an All-America the following season), Tommy Kearns, Joe Quigg and Bob Cunningham.

The stars were many during the 1960's. Big Lee Shaffer was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1960. Shaffer was a great scorer and later was an all-star performer in the National Basketball Association with the Syracuse Nationals.

York Larese and Doug Moe also starred for the Tar Heels in the early part of the decade. Larese ranks as one of the greatest free throw shooters in Carolina history. Moe was a sensational all-around star and now coaches in the NBA.

A teammate of Moe's was Larry Brown, a diminutive guard who rates as one of Carolina's finest playmakers. Brown, now the head coach at UCLA, played on the 1964 U.S. Olympic team which swept the Gold Medal.

Billy Cunningham, a three-time All-ACC selection, was the next star on the Carolina scene. He made All-America in 1965. The "Kangaroo Kid" went on to become a great professional star with the Philadelphia 76ers and now coaches that team.

Bob Lewis, a thin sharpshooter from Washington, D.C., followed Cunningham into the Tar Heel spotlight. He holds the Carolina single-game scoring record with 49 points against Florida State.

Next came Larry Miller, an All-America in 1968 when he led his team to the national finals where the Tar Heels lost to Lew Alcindor and UCLA. Miller twice was named the ACC Player of the Year. At 6-4 and 215 pounds, he was a rugged performer who dazzled crowds with driving layups and a great variety of shots.

Bill Bunting, Rusty Clark and Dick Grubar were starters on Carolina teams which won three straight ACC regular-season and tournament championships, swept three Eastern Regionals in a row and went to the final four in the nation.

Bunting had a great senior season and made All-ACC. Grubar was one of the most popular athletes to wear Carolina Blue and was a sparkling playmaker and defender. Clark was a tough defensive player and a great rebounder.

Then there was Charlie Scott, who excelled in every phase of the game. He made All-America in his senior season and was voted ACC Athlete of the Year. In 1968 he starred for the United States in the Olympic Games.

Three fine frontcourt players—Bill Chamberlain, Dennis Wuycik and Robert McAdoo—sparked Carolina teams in the early 1970's. Chamberlain was the Most Valuable Player in the 1971 National Invitation Tournament as the Tar Heels swept that title. Wuycik was a fine shooter and an aggressive rebounder. McAdoo had a great shooting touch and was an excellent rebounder. They led the Tar Heels to the NCAA's Final Four in 1972.

Another All-ACC performer in that period was George Karl, a three-year starter and a highly popular player. He amazed fans with his daring and diving on the court.

One of the most complete players to play the college game was Bobby Jones. Jones had great quickness and was a superb defender. He's one of the NBA's biggest stars.

Another great all-around player was Mitch Kupchak, the 1976 ACC Player of the Year. Mitch led the Tar Heels to a 25-4 record in his senior season and played a key role in the Washington Bullets' NBA championship in 1978.

Then came Walter Davis, John Kuester and Tommy LaGarde. They played on Carolina teams which won 98 games and lost only 23. All three were excellent defensive players and good shooters.

Davis, in fact, is regarded as one of the greatest clutch players in Carolina history. He was the NBA Rookie of the Year three seasons ago and is a two-time all-pro. Kuester was the Most Valuable Player in both the ACC Tournament and the Eastern Regionals as a senior. LaGarde was an All-America on the team chosen by the pro coaches.

And, of course, there was Phil Ford. He was National Player of the Year as a senior and is the all-time Carolina leader in both scoring and assists. He has been called the best guard ever to play the college game. Phil was the NBA Rookie of the Year two seasons ago.

The most recent superstars have been Dudley Bradley and Mike O'Koren. Bradley was the ACC Tournament's MVP in 1979. A first-round pro draft choice, he rates as one of the greatest defensive players ever at Carolina... or anywhere else for that matter.

O'Koren, the sixth player chosen in last spring's NBA draft, had a brilliant Carolina career. He and Miller are the only two Tar Heels to rank among the school's top 10 in scoring, rebounding and assists. Some call him the most complete forward to play at Carolina.

The Educational Foundation

One of the most important organizations in the Carolina Athletic Department is the University's Educational Foundation.

It is the Educational Foundation which makes possible all athletic scholarships awarded by Carolina.

As the Tar Heel sports program has grown through the years, the Foundation has done likewise. It is the enthusiasm and generosity of Foundation members which allows Carolina to field its excellent athletic teams.

"Interest reaches a new peak each year," says Ernie Williamson, the Foundation's executive vice-president. "There are many reasons for this, but the most important has been our great success in all sports the last few years."

The Educational Foundation currently has over 3,600 members who finance a scholarship program that costs over $1,000,000 a year.

"Since its inaugeration in 1938, the Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, for over 2,500 student-athletes," says Williamson.

Williamson has always contended that a donation to the Foundation is not specifically a donation to athletics. He says the high caliber young athlete who is awarded a scholarship is a great representative of the University.

Williamson feels the overall bonus of being a Foundation member is in helping a worthy young student obtain a college education. Athletics come second.

Any donation to the Foundation is welcome. However, membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $100 or more.

Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program was started in 1968 and has been quite successful.

"We have life members of $10,000 and $25,000, endowed scholarships of $50,000 and have just recently enlisted 100 members who have purchased $50,000 scholarships through life insurance," says Williamson. "Several members also have indicated they have included the Foundation in their wills and bequests to enable continued success in the future."

A special room on the south wing of Kenan Fieldhouse serves as a meeting place for Rams and their families. This area is open two hours before football games and provides a lounge and picnic area for those who come early.

"A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," points out Williamson. "Some of our finest members did not attend Carolina, however. They simply heard about our program and felt it was worthy."

The Foundation operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessing and good will of all the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status similar to that of the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation and other money-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

Ernie Williamson

The man who stands at the helm of the Educational Foundation is popular and capable Ernie Williamson, the executive vice-president.

The former star Carolina tackle is one of the most active individuals on the Tar Heel sports scene. He is constantly on the go—talking with Foundation members, speaking to prospective members or avidly following all of Carolina's athletic teams.

Williamson is a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va., played one season of football here under Carl Snavely and was regarded as an outstanding tackle.

He was lured away to professional football and played with New York and Washington before a knee injury ended his career.

Williamson returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees and then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was an assistant coach there for two years and head coach for three seasons.

He returned to Carolina in 1957 to accept his present position. At one time he also served as a recruiter for the football program.

He is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va. They have a son, Wayne, and a daughter, Carole.
